Location: Stand on the bluffs in front of bare exposed rocks to the left of the path (see pictures).

Access: Park at the Point Colville parking lot off the gravel forest road; if you see a "Private Property" or "No Trespassing" sign you've gone too far. Once on the trail, stay right both times when the trail splits to get to the water’s edge (~0.8 mi to survey point from parking area). There is an outhouse at the trail entrance.

Map:
Site #: 160
County: San Juan
Site Name: Point Colville – Lopez Island

Town: Port Stanley, Lopez Island
GPS: N48° 25.348' W122° 49.025'

Created: September 2018

Location of scope/surveyor:
View from the bluff, looking west from trail.

View from further along the trail, looking east.
Site #: 160
County: San Juan
Site Name: Point Colville – Lopez Island
Town: Port Stanley, Lopez Island
GPS: N48° 25.348' W122° 49.025'
Created: September 2018

Reference points:
Looking west (ahead/right) from survey point, lichen covered rock on Castle Island is 250 m and the rocky outcrop at the edge of the point is 210 m from observer.